Christopher Anderson on Recent Budget Announcements in Canadian Lawyer Magazine

In an interview with Canadian Lawyer Magazine, Christopher Anderson discusses some of the potential implications of the 2024 federal budget, including the effect the rise in capital gains tax may have on investments in Canada and the financial impact on Canadian doctors who incorporate their practices to level the playing field earnings-wise with their U.S. counterparts. On the plus side, real estate investors will now be able to deduct their entire interest expense when investing in purpose-built rental housing.
