"My team's goal is to support an open work environment that nurtures success and diversity, and creates a positive place for our people to come to every day. I believe a welcoming environment fosters communication. Open communication leads to increased efficiency and ingenuity, which in turn benefit our clients through their experiences with our people."

With more than 20 years in the field, Joyce is clear about the impact of her role as Senior Director of Human Resources for the Toronto office. She leads a team of human resources professionals who advocate for inclusion and diversity, and aim to deliver a rewarding experience for our people.
