Clients turn to Marc for insightful analysis and sophisticated solutions. He considers the big picture but always with attention to client-specific details.

Marc advises on a wide range of domestic and international business transactions, including private corporate purchases and sales, mergers, and real estate and operating company joint ventures. He represents borrowers and lenders of mortgage and mezzanine real property loans as well as asset-based loans in facilities of all sizes. For more than 20 years, clients have trusted Marc for his practical advice on shareholder arrangements and alternative (non-corporate) entity agreements, licensing and other general commercial matters. He regularly serves as outside “in-house” counsel for clients negotiating key business contracts, and he acts for employers and executives negotiating compensation arrangements.
