Peter Glicklich Appointed President of the International Fiscal Association (USA Branch)

Peter Glicklich has been appointed president of the USA Branch of the International Fiscal Association (IFA). The USA Branch has close to 1,000 tax professionals as members and is one of the largest branches of the 14,000-member worldwide organization. Peter is known for his innovative and practical tax advice and his wide-ranging experience and cross-border expertise in tax matters.

IFA is the largest professional association focused exclusively on international tax. Its USA Branch committees and officers routinely produce educational seminars and provide informal networking opportunities for corporate and individual tax lawyers and accountants, government officials and academic faculty members. Much of the content produced is available without charge to its members. Committees also include content for associated groups, such as the Women's IFA Network and the Young IFA Network.
