“Greg is intelligent, creative, authoritative and an extremely valuable resource on the most complex projects. He is a strong advocate but never loses sight of the ultimate goal, which is to create a win-win result.”

Client – Chambers Global

In his two decades of practice, Greg has taken a lead role in some of the largest and most significant private-public partnership (PPP) and infrastructure projects in Canada and the United States. He has successfully guided projects across all transportation, rail, social/urban renewal, water/wastewater and alternative energy asset classes. Greg heads up the firm’s North American infrastructure/PPP practice and is one of the senior members in our commercial real estate group. He has worked on some of Canada’s largest office, development, construction, multi-family and hospitality sector transactions.

Greg is a former member of the firm’s Management Committee.
