Zain brings a creative and pragmatic approach to his clients' most critical corporate, securities and technology matters.

Clients of all sizes trust Zain to provide responsive, incisive and business-oriented counsel on a broad range of commercial, regulatory and technology matters. Zain regularly assists U.S. and Canadian-based companies and investors in the technology sector and other growth industries in navigating a range of significant corporate transactions, including public and private mergers and acquisitions, venture capital financings and other transformative business transactions. He also advises emerging and growth stage companies throughout the business life cycle, from formation and governance matters through to strategic partnerships and exit opportunities. Zain is sought after for his broad expertise in areas of relevance for technology companies, including in privacy, cybersecurity, blockchain and financial regulatory matters.
